A Few Paragraphs Not Intended to Displease.

BOTH GRAVE AND GAY

They Are Not Fiction But Products From Thoughtful Cogitation and Everyday Events in Local Life

A little tot of a girl was running away from her mamma and was going down town where the teams were and where there was some danger of being run over. Her mamma caught her just as she got to the public square and she said to her breathlessly, "My goodness baby! weren't you afraid?" Said the infant: "Yes, I was awful afraid you would catch me." So that kids even unto this day are wholly irrepressible.

Charley Smith, the genial tonsorial artist prides himself quite highly as the "salvy man." Last week just before contest Charley was after several of the contestants to apply his "lucky ointment," but Fred Anderson was somewhat superstitious and didn't care to indulge. Homer Henderson was then sent for, although he had shaved just a few minutes before he came down town, he was soon in the chair getting hair-cut and another shave in order that "Smith" might lay hands on him. Charley doesn't believe in Dowisism, but he has a faith of his own, that of being able to select the winner in any contest whatever it might be.

"Marketing on Sunday" is a new feature about the burg. Such was the case last Sabbath when a lady came to town with a basket of provisions for market. She hitched her horse in the neighborhood of Gray's store, and upon finding the store locked asked some bystanders why the store was closed. They informed her that the proprietor had gone to church.
It then dawned upon her that the day was one on which no marketing was done. The lady then gathered up her goods and started homeward. She evidently got her dates mixed.

Most of the college students have returned to their respective homes, and greatly missed in a number of the homes.

"Boy" Gray and Jim Barlow, the veteran fisherman, had a Cleveland tuna of mind one day this week and concluded to take a day off and go fishing over to the river at Clifton.
The sun was very hot that day, and Barlow suffered somewhat of a sun stroke, "Boy" secured the service of a nearby liveryman and returned home.

Cheese Factory Starts.

The cheese factory opened for business, last Monday, and made a very good start. A number of farmers brought in milk as a sample, which proved to be of a very good quality.
The quantity has averaged about 1000 pounds daily so far this week. It is expected that the amount will be more than doubled by the middle of the coming week.
The firm, Gibson & Postley, has erected a modern structure and equipped it with the latest improved machinery for the manufacture of cheese. These gentlemen have gone to considerable expense for this business and should receive the hearty cooperation of every citizen in the community.

Monmouth College Commencement.

We are in receipt of a copy of The Evening Gazette, published at Monmouth, Ill., giving an account of the commencement exercises of Monmouth College. Twenty-nine graduates received diplomas from the college.
The class address was delivered by John Merle Couter, Ph. D., head professor of botany in the Chicago University. Among the list of graduates who received the degree of A. B. we notice the name of Miss Junia Pollock one of Cedarville's popular young ladies. Miss Pollock came in for second honors in her class. At the meeting of senate Prof. McMillan, vice president, was requested to take charge of the president's affairs owing to the resignation of Pres. S. R. Lyons.
Prof. McMillan is to be relieved from whatever teaching he desires, and will receive the regular salary of the president, $1800 per year. The committee on finance report the endowment to be $100,000.

Dead to Rights.

Murray Marshall, the 17 year old son of John Marshall was caught in the net of petty larceny last Monday.
For some time back money has been missing from the till at Ervin's mill, it being generally taken at noon hour.
The amounts at various times were about three or four dollars. On this occasion everything was put in readiness and the money marked with Frank Ervin on guard. Shortly after the mill was closed at noon the boy made his appearance and entered by a window in the rear. After gaining entrance he then went to the cash drawer and succeeded in opening it after some little difficulty. On one occasion he came near catching Frank as he went up stairs for a screw driver.
There was about seven dollars in the till but the lad only took about half of it. He then placed things in order and was ready to leave when Frank interrupted. He was taken by surprise and made all kinds of promises and the money back if allowed his liberty, but was refused. A telephone message brought Marshall Grindle and the boy was soon behind the bars.
He appeared before Mayor Wolford and was fined $15 and costs and gave bond for his good behavior.

Council Meeting.

The council met in regular session Monday evening, all being present except J. H. Andrew. The usual routine of business was transacted. As this was the evening for lifting the petition in regard to saloons from the table, quite a number of interested spectators were present, also a number of the W. G. T. U. ladies. Several speeches were made in favor of repealing the ordinance. Council took no action except appointing a committee to investigate and report as to what should be done, at the next meeting.
McLean, Northrup and Dean constitute the committee.

Well Known Here.

From Kokomo, Ind., comes the following: "Three years ago Joshua C.
Freeman wanted to marry Nora B.
East and threatened to enlist in the army if she refused him.
"Enlist," she said, "The country needs you worse than I do. Perhaps when you return I will marry you." He enlisted, and last week he returned from the Philippines. By chance he met Miss East in town.
"You said 'perhaps,'" was his greeting to her.
"I meant yes," was her reply, "if you re-enlist."
In 10 minutes Squire De Haven married them and the groom departed at once for Ft. Sheridan to again offer his services to the Government. On the way he received a telegram saying:
"You need not re-enlist if you do not want to."
The officiating squire in this case was none other than a former citizen of Greene county, James D. DeHaven, familiarly known as "Jim,"—Xenia Engineer Pierce had the fire engine out on Friday pumping out the water from the cistern in front of the hotel and the Walker property on South Main street. These cisterns have been disconnected with the dwellings and after being cleaned and repaired will be filled with creek water. It was found that when the water backs up in the sewer at the railroad it emptied into the cistern at the hotel, this being the cause for its filthy condition.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special pre-brated German Physician, and is ac-knowledgeed to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in medicine. It lung troubles of the severest nature, removing as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annu-

Historic Inclosure Where the Dust of Men of Great Comings.

In Trinity churchyard every atom of earth is sacred, says a writer in the New York Herald. Within the familiar inclosure lie entombed the remains of 100,000 of the people of old New York. Three deep are the graves. The early records are gone, but tradition, history and ancient stones tell their stories of men of deeds—of sacrifices, sorrows, labors and achievements.
There under the shadow of God's temple Mother Earth has opened her bosom with strict impartiality to English governors and signers of the Declaration, to royalist soldiers and Liberty Boys, to the English garrison and to the starry martyrs of the Revolution, Judges and generals, ministers and merchants, mariners and artisans, the rich and renowned, the poor and humble, all lie here, their bones dissolved, their dust mingled, forming together one great memorial and one concentrated history of the origin and growth of the American metropolis.

The colonial governors, Sir Henry Moore and Sir Danvers Osborne, were buried here; also the wives of Governors Clarke and Cornbury.
Each of these representatives of foreign government resided in the fort south of Bowling Green.

Here are also the royalist judges, James Delaney, who presided at the trial of Peter Zenger, and Daniel Horsmanden, who, though devoted to the maintaining of the prerogatives of the crown, withstood Governor Calden's arbitrary acts; and David Jameson, attorney general of the province and recorder of the city of New York; Robert R. Livingston and Leonard Lispenard, members of the stamp act congress, and John Cruger, delegate to that congress and the first native born mayor of New York. Judges, delegates and mayors all performed their work in the city hall on the site of the Treasury building.

And here lie General John Lamb and General John M. Scott and General Marquis Willett, boldest of Liberty Boys, whose voices were heard with Hamilton's in the great meetings of the people on the commons, then called the Field of Freedom, now the City Hall park; also John Holt, the patriot printer of The Gazette and Post Boy.

School Meals in France.
In the rural districts of France every pupil, boy or girl, takes to school in the morning a handful of vegetables and puts them in a large pan of water. They are washed by one of the older pupils, who take turns at performing this duty. Then the vegetables are placed in a kettle with water and a piece of pork and are cooked while the lessons are going on. At 11:30 o'clock each member of the co-operative association has a bowl of hot soup. To cover the cost of fuel and meat those pupils who can afford it pay from 2 to 4 sous a month. In most of the villages of France the pupils in the public schools are now furnished their midday meals at "school canteens," maintained either by the municipality or by private generosity.

Finding a "Mare's Nest." The origin of the expression "To find a mare's nest" has been traced to the days of the early Saxons.
What we call a nightmare was by our forefathers supposed to be the Saxon demon Mare, a kind of vampire, which caused the insomnia by sitting on the sleeper's chest.
The Mare vampires were said to be the guardians of hidden treasures, over which they were supposed to brood as hens do over their eggs, and the place where they sat was termed their neidus, or nest; hence, when any one announced that he had made an extraordinary discovery some one accused him of finding a mare's nest or the place where the vampire kept guard over her hypothetical treasures.

Dip Your Hands in Water.
It is a strange fact that the right hand, which is more sensible to the touch than the left, is less sensible than the latter to the effect of heat or cold.

If you dip both hands simultaneously into two bowls of water of equal temperature, the left will experience the higher sensation of heat; and this will happen even if the thermometer shows that the water in the left bowl is in reality a trifle colder than the water in the right one. The reverse happens in the case of persons who are left handed.

Sops For Sailors.
Some of the privileges of members of foreign legislative bodies are amusing. Danish M. P.'s can have a free seat in the Royal theater at Copenhagen whenever they like. The members of Norway receive free medical attention and nursing if they fall ill during their session. In Sweden a most extended privilege includes courses of gymnastics, massage baths, wine and dental work, all gratis.

Against the Stage.
Not long since John M. East, the noted English actor was touring the provinces with a company playing "An Ideal Husband" and overheard a woman give a practical reason for not attending the performance, relates the Chicago Chronicle. She was examining the bills outside the theater.

"An—an idle husband!" Mr.
East heard her mutter. "I've got one of that sort at home. I don't pay my money to go in there!" On another occasion Mr. East wished to produce a little sketch he had written for the music hall stage.
A dog was necessary for the action of the piece. He searched the columns of The Exchange and Mart and finally entered into communication with a lady at Streatham who was anxious to dispose of a big Newfoundland. At the end of a lengthy interview Mr. East casually mentioned that he wanted to use the dog in a variety sketch. The lady looked blank. He explained—a little play, a dramatic performance—but the lady cut him short.
"Good morning!" she exclaimed, opening the door. "I could never think of allowing my Ponto to go on the stage!"

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

An Absentminded Man Who Went Shopping.

Young married, visionary, airy and very philosophical, he approached the young lady at the counter as though walking in his sleep.

"Please let me see a sample of your left hand pockets," was the surprising request.

"Sample of left hand pockets?" "Sample of parson?" And the clerk showed how tall and dignified she could be. "Possibly you want me to show you some buttonholes, needle eyes or invisible perforations for embroidery."

"No, I think not. I recall none of those on the list. I'm noting for my wife, you know—charming woman, but so unpractical; thinks that the house must be attended to no matter what becomes of the shopping. You have no left hand pockets?"

"No pockets of any kind. Possibly you wanted the opening to the pocket or a pump for inflating the pocket." And the several clerks who had gathered around looked at everything but the customer.

"It might be. I confess that I'm a little uncertain as to just what my wife did ask me to get. Come to think of it, I have a list; forgot all about it—butter, vegetables, oysters, sweet potatoes. Ah, here it is—sample, left hand pocket, two yards."

"Then feel in your left hand pocket," laughed the clerk, and all the other clerks laughed.

He did. There was a sample of narrow ribbon. The combined talent of the clerks matched it, and the customer wondered why they all beamed so benignly on him.—Stray Stories.

Obedient Orders.

"Good gracious, Bridget, what ever are you turning out the seat of that chair for?"

"Sure, quinn, ye said I was to commence 'spring cleaning' this mornin'."

Stoutsville, Mo., May 5, 1900
Gentlemen:—I have been troubled with Indigestion and Constipation for the last two years, and have tried every remedy known, but had never received any relief until I was handed a trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin through our druggist, J. W. Watson, which gave me immediate relief, and I afterward bought a fifty cent bottle, which I can truthfully say has given me more relief than anything I have ever tried.—R. B. Hurd. Sold by C. M. Ridgway.

—For the best galvanized iron water tanks and troughs see Pierce & Stewart as they will quote you lowest prices.

The Shamrock's Designer.

George Lennox Watson, the designer of Shamrock II, began his career as a naval architect in 1872, says the London King. Since then he has been responsible for the creation of some very famous craft. In his first year he designed the Clotilde, which proved a great success. In 1880 he planned the construction of the Vaudora, which beat the famous Formosa, owned by the then Prince of Wales. He furnished the plans for the America's cup competitors in the Thistle, Valkyrie II and Valkyrie III. But perhaps his greatest triumph was the Britannia cutter for the Prince of Wales, the best craft of its kind ever seen in British waters. Besides yachts, he has designed many of the great ocean going steamers. In undertaking to supply the design for Shamrock II he admitted that he had the utmost man in the boatbuilding world to beat in Horreshoff, the American, but he was not dismayed by America's past successes.

—You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active, energetic man with a torpid liver and you may know that his liver is torpid when does not relish his food or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. A few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will restore his liver to its normal functions, renew his vitality, improve his digestion and make him feel like a new man. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at C. M. Ridgway's drug store.

Ends of Counterfeit Bills.
At a down town bank the other day I saw a teller counting a pile of bills, each one of which was upside down.

"Why do you hold them that way?" I asked.

"So as to view their left ends rather than their right ends," he answered. "It is natural to hold a pile of bills with your left hand and to turn them back with the right hand as you count. Counterfeiters know this, and so they are more careful with the work at the right hand end of the face. First impressions go a great way in judging of money, so they try to make it as favorable as possible. Of course, the safe way is to carefully examine all portions of a bill, but when counting rapidly I use this method."—New York Herald.

I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. The New York Stock Exchange at present has a membership of 1,100. Several years ago it was increased to that number from 1,000. According to the present market price, each seat has a value of $70,000 cash. The total membership, therefore, represents in money a sum equal to $77,000,000.

In addition to the market value of memberships there should be added the sum contained in what is known as the gratuity fund, also the other assets of the exchange, which together aggregate about $10,000,000.

The actual market value, therefore, of all the memberships in the Stock Exchange is equal to about $87,000,000. This represents an increase at the rate of about $1,000,000 a year since a few brokers assembled together under a button-wood tree near the Battery for the purpose of swapping stores and stocks.—New York Press.

THE THIRTEENTH IMMORTAL.

Will Rostand have the nerve to occupy a seat which bears the fatal number 13?

This is a question which many Frenchmen are now asking, and the reason is because it is regarded as practically certain that the distinguished dramatist will soon be elected a member of the French academy, and if so he will most probably be assigned to a seat which bears the number 13.

There are at present four empty seats in the academy, and they are respectively numbered 25, 7, 13 and 14. Of these the first two have already been awarded to Messieurs Emile Faguet and Berthelot, and they will at an early date take possession of them amid appropriate ceremonies. The seat numbered 13 was that of the Viscount Henri de Bornier, and that numbered 14 was that of the Duc de Broglie.

The number 13, however, appears more than once on this occasion, for it is pointed out that M. Emile Faguet will be the thirteenth occupant of the seat numbered 25.

Potent is superstition even in the twentieth century, and there are many persons who have a horrible foreboding that ill luck in some form will surely come to two of the four new members of the academy—namely, to the one who occupies the seat numbered 13 and to M. Faguet, who will be the thirteenth to occupy the seat numbered 25.
